Every group of friends has that one person – the one you're always joking about (either to their face or not) –, and if you don't know who that person is, it ought to be you!

Shitty Friends is a quick and easy game where players randomly draw cards that make statements or questions about someone's character. Then, on the count of three, every player on the table points to who they see fit for that situation. The most voted person gets the card, and whoever gets 5 cards first is crowned the Shitty Friend!

Put your colleagues to the test and take your relationships to the limit with Shitty Friends!
